U. S. TO REQUEST JAPAN TO SHIFT SHIPS TO ATLANTIC

ing the war. Nothing has been sale ing the war. Nothing has been said to the American Government about political questions. And J. R. Kennedy, an American newspaperman, who came from Tokyo with the Japenese mission, and who wrote an article recently that seemed to reflect the views of Viscount Ishii, is authority for the statement that the Japanese do not feel that as guests of the United States they ought to broach any questions, political or scharwise that are not suggested by otherwise, that are not suggested by American Government.

And so far as the United States is oncerned, there appears to be no dis concerned, there appears to be no dis-position in Government circles here to open up tangled political prob-letms relating either to the future of China or the status of the Pacific islands wrested from Japan by Germany. Such an attitude is based upon the theory that discussion would awaken dissension and that it would not be conducive to war cooperation any more than a discussion of the various war aims of individual members of the entents could at the present stage of the controversy lead to good feeling. The entente in Eu-rope is postponing such questions un-til the peace conference, and as far as the Far East is concerned, the likelihood is that American statesmen would want to do the same thing, par-ticularly because the United States does not feel that the Chinese ques-tion belongs to her for adjudication with Japan any more than it belongs Great Britain, France, and Russis to Great Britain, France, and Russia, to Perhaps the Japanese would be happy if they could take back to Japanesesurances concerning this Government's future policies in the Far Fast, and there is nothing given out by the Administration to show that it will ar will not discuss these delicate which were wet it would not be auxiliary wat it would not be auxiliary. Broblems, yet it would not be sur-arising if political questions were touched upon in only the vaguest and et casual way. An Empty Phrase.

What then will the Japanese mis-tion de? "Co-operation in the war" is not an empty phrase. The Japan-see are vitally interested in that co-operation because it relates closely to dustry, trade, or commerce. United States recently placed an em-United States recently places an em-barge' on steel plates for ship con-lituation.
